

Dr. Jayfus T. Doswell

President/CEO
Juxtapia®, LLC

Dr. Jayfus T. Doswell is the founder, president, and chief executive officer of Juxtapia®, LLC, a biomedical and information technology company with a mission to improve human performance. Dr. Doswell is also the chairperson of The Juxtapia® Group, Inc., a non-profit 501c3 organization with a mission to improve human learning performance with science and technology research that adapts to individual learning needs. Additionally, Doswell is a distinguished professor of Biotechnology at Elizabeth City State University (ECSU) located in North Carolina where he is responsible for instructing next generation of leaders, fund raising, entrepreneurship, and outreach. Dr. Doswell sits on several not for profit boards and is an active member of the American Public Health Association (APHA) Health Informatics and Information Technology (HIIT) special interest group, American Telemedicine Association (ATA), Association of Computing Machinery (ACM), Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineering (IEEE), and the National Society of Black Engineers (NSBE). Prior to starting Juxtapia® in 2001, Dr. Doswell lead several commercial software engineering teams ranging from Lockheed Martin and SAIC to BearingPoint. Dr. Doswell and Juxtapia® currently lead research and product development combining artificial intelligence, telemedicine/telehealth, bioinformatics, computational biology, and biosensors.

Dr. Doswell earned a Bachelor of Arts (BA) from Oberlin College with degrees in Psychology (cognitive neuro-psychology) and Computer Science; a Masters degree in Systems and Computer Science from Howard University; and a Ph.D. degree in Information Technology from George Mason University.

##