Coppin State University remembers Congressman Elijah Cummings

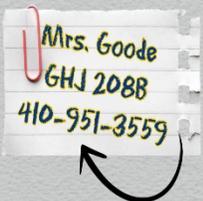

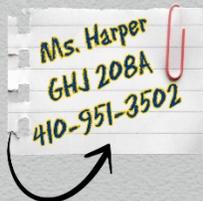

Congressman Cummings was a determined and passionate advocate for higher education. In Maryland, that advocacy included his legacy as an alumnus of the University of Maryland School of Law and his service on the University of Maryland School of Law Board of Advisors and the Morgan State University governing board. At the University of Maryland, College Park, Rep. Cummings was the December 2017 commencement speaker and received an honorary Doctor of Public Service in recognition of his distinguished public career of empowering the community he served and his tireless work on such causes as education, health care, housing, and civil rights. Congressman Cummings dedicated his public life to seeing that others had access to quality schools and affordable colleges and universities.

Spread the mixture evenly on one tortilla, cover evenly with the cheese, then top with the other tortilla. Cook for another 30 seconds to 1 minute, slice, then serve.

Ingredients

- 2 medium flour tortillas
- ½ cup chicken strip, or shredded chicken, cooked
- ½ bell pepper, diced
- 1 tablespoon taco seasoning
- ¼ cup shredded cheddar cheese

Millions of College Students Are Going Hungry

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) defines food insecurity as a lack of consistent access to enough food for an active, healthy life.

Hunger on Campus said that changing demographics, including increases in nontraditional and lower-income students, may contribute to high food and housing insecurity. Fifty-two percent of off-campus students who do not live with relatives are “at or near” the poverty line.

Nearly three-quarters of college students are “nontraditional students, meaning that they fit one of six criteria: they attend college part-time, are employed full-time, are financially independent, must provide for dependents, are a single parent, or do not have a high school diploma,” Hunger on Campus said. Twenty-four percent are “highly nontraditional” and meet four criteria, and 31 percent are “moderately nontraditional” and meet two or three criteria.

If you or someone you know (a commuter student) is currently experiencing “food insecurity”, please visit the First Year Experience Office to speak with an advisor.
