BILLS HOPE TO SPEED COMMERCIALIZATION AND TECHNOLOGY TRANSFER EFFORTS AT USM INSTITUTIONS

On Tuesday, Senate Bill 239 was heard in Senate Finance Committee. The bill establishes the Maryland Innovation Initiative within the Maryland Technology Development Corporation (TEDCO). The goal of Senate Bill 239 is to promote technology transfer from Maryland's public and private nonprofit research institutions to the private sector.

More specifically, the initiative authorizes grant funding to qualifying universities to promote the commercialization of technology developed at the institution and requires USM to undertake qualified “high impact development Activities.” High Impact Development Activities are activities that create or facilitate: 20+ new jobs; the award or completion of $100M in externally funded research; the establishment or relocation of one or more new companies to Maryland; the production of at least $100M of revenue per annum; the licensing or potential commercialization of a promising new technology; an academic program to meet workforce demand in a documented labor shortage field; and promote the economic interests of the State USM shall use its powers as a Public Corporation.

The bill also requires the Board of Regents to adopt policies to establish high impact development activities. Finally, the bill alters the review and approval process for certain types of higher education contracts by the Board of Public Works.
The companion bill to Senate Bill 239 is House Bill 442. House Bill 442 is scheduled for a hearing on February 14th in House Economic Matters at 1pm.

USM supports both Senate Bill 239 and House Bill 442.

UNIVERSITY SYSTEM SEEKS AMENDMENT TO JOIN AGENCY OFFICIALS IN REPORTING SUSPECTED ABUSE

On Wednesday, USM Vice Chancellor PJ Hogan testified before the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee to express USM support of a proposed amendment to Senate Bill 63.

Senate Bill 63 adds medical examiners and parole and probation agents to those workers who, when acting in a professional capacity, are required to report suspected incidences of child abuse or neglect.

The USM amendment would allow the USM presidents and the chancellor to carry out appropriate actions following a report of suspected child abuse committed by: a current employee; a contractor, employee of a contractor, or volunteer of the institution who has on-campus contact with children; in connection with an institution sponsored, recognized or approved program, camp, or other activity; or on institution property.

In the wake of the Penn State child abuse tragedy and ensuing scandal, the USM has redoubled its efforts to ensure that our institutions are doing everything they can to protect the safety of children on our campuses. This amendment is an important element in our ability to respond effectively when one of our institutions bears accountability for suspected child abuse or neglect that implicates its personnel or programs.

The USM for many years has had strong policies supporting the voluntary reporting by employees, students, and others of abuse and misconduct on our campuses and protecting those who make such reports. On December 9, 2011, the Board of Regents strengthened those safeguards with approval of a new policy that specifically addresses the mandatory child abuse and neglect reporting requirements of the Family Law Article. The USM has followed up on that policy action with a range of efforts to ensure both full compliance with the reporting law and effective response when reports involving the USM community are made.

The proposed amendment is intended to remove a significant existing obstacle to that effective response. The obstacle arises from the current statute on the confidentiality of child abuse reports (Human Services Article Section 1-202). The need for strong confidentiality protections for the reporters and victims of abuse, and those who may be unjustifiably accused, is clear. However, records and reports of child abuse and neglect, including the outcome of a Child Protective Services investigation itself, generally cannot be shared with the organization employing or otherwise accountable for the alleged abuser unless the organization has either a court order or a specific statutory exemption from the general confidentiality rule. Most agencies and entities that work with children already have obtained exemptions authorizing them to receive information regarding child abuse investigations and related reports related either to their ability to serve abused children or to take appropriate personnel or other action with respect to an abuser; these include public and private school systems, child care centers, hospitals, treatment programs, and other organizations.

The narrow amendment proposed by the USM would simply add public higher education institutions to this long list of organizations that can receive reports and records when needed by an institution to take appropriate action regarding an alleged abuser. For obvious reasons, when abuse is alleged by an institution employee, contractor, or volunteer, or when it occurs in USM facilities or in connection with a USM-sponsored program, it is essential that the institution must be able to confirm an appropriate report has been made to Child Protective Services. Then, after the CPS investigation is completed, the institution needs to know the outcome of that investigation in order to take any required personnel or administrative action.

The amendment will strike a careful balance between the equally important goals of protecting the confidentiality of this most sensitive information and allowing our institutions to act effectively to protect young people on our campuses.
