CSU Policies and Guidelines for Students Studying Abroad

Academic Expectations

Study abroad courses are academic programs with the same expectations as classes held at the campus of CSU. Participants in study abroad programs are referred to the CSU student handbook regarding the rules, policies, and code of conduct, including behavior off campus, which may subject them to judicial board actions.

The course syllabus will spell out the specific expectations for assignments, evaluations, and grades.

In addition, study abroad students are required to attend all classes and all excursions which are a part of the program itinerary. The only acceptable excuse for missing a class or an excursion is illness. It is the responsibility of the student to notify the Director of any illness prior to the start of the class or excursion.

Students must be punctual for classes, excursions and travel. If a participant misses a bus, airplane or train, (s)he will at his/her own expense seek out, contact and reach the program group at its next available destination. Missing activities or excursions may lower student grades or have other consequences.

Behavioral Expectations

Participants in a study abroad program are to behave as good ambassadors for CSU and for the nation.

Students abroad should understand that behaviors which seem inconsequential in the United States may have serious unforeseen implications overseas. Accordingly, students studying abroad are expected: to abide local laws, to dress appropriate to local norms, to be respectful of local etiquette for food and meals, to be cautious about local gender dynamics and to be respectful of local norms for relationships between youths and elders.

Alcohol abuse will not be tolerated. Participants must abide by the laws of the host country. Participants will not – because of the effects of alcohol consumption – miss scheduled events, become ill, be disrespectful, destroy property, engage in objectively dangerous conduct, or engage in behavior that causes embarrassment to the other members of the group or to the in-county hosts.

Illegal drug use will not be tolerated. Students are bound by the laws of the host country, which could severely punish drug use or possession. The student alone must attend to any legal problems that (s)he encounters in the host country. CSU is not responsible for providing any assistance under such circumstances. Students who use illegal drugs will be dismissed from the program, with no credit awarded and no refund.
Certain activities carry unacceptable risks, so CSU can not condone them. Such activities include, but are not limited to: renting and operating a motor vehicle of any type (including mopeds), participating in political demonstrations, solitary travel, bungee jumping, scuba diving, rock climbing and hang gliding. Any student who intends to engage in any risky activity must sign a statement to the effect that they are doing so outside the auspices of the CSU study abroad program.

Dismissal and cancelation

By participating in the program a student consents to the authority of the program leader and CSU to send students home to the US early and/or to cancel a program. In consultation with the university, the program leader may opt to send students home in response to: criminal activity (arrest, drug use, physical or sexual assault, etc); inappropriate behavior (a continuing pattern of behavior that does not improve with advising and which endangers the program’s relationship with the host institution or community; or behavior which is insensitive to other group members and or damages the group’s moral); an emotional crises; a serious illness. In such instances, no refund or credit will be awarded to the participant.

The university may cancel the program in response to, but not limited to the following circumstances: death of a participant; kidnapping; outbreak of a highly infectious disease; natural disaster; a political or civic emergency; the death, serious injury or illness of the program director.

Health

Before going overseas, all students are required to be examined by a physician, who must determine the student is in good health and can participate in the program.

Students must consult their doctor about required/suggested immunizations and must obtain any required immunizations. The Center for Disease Control and Prevention provides useful guidance on health conditions and immunizations for travelers. (See http://wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel/default.aspx)

Student also should have a dental check-up before departure.

Note: Prior to traveling, all students must complete and submit the form entitled, “CSU Study Abroad Medical Self-assessment.”

Mandatory Medical and Accident Insurance

CSU requires all program participants to have supplemental overseas health and accident insurance while participating on the program. (CSU also strongly advises that participants also maintain their US health insurance policy while overseas.)

The insurance must cover emergency medical care and treatment, hospitalization, physician charges in the host country, as well as insurance for medical evacuation and repatriation. The minimum allowable benefits are: up to $250,000 per injury for medical expense benefits; $75,000 for emergency medical evacuation; $75,000 for repatriation; $10,000 for accidental death and dismemberment.
Students are responsible for purchasing this overseas health and accident insurance. While CSU does not endorse any insurance provider, the following companies provide this type of insurance for travelers. Students should contact the companies directly for information:

- Seven Corners International Travel Medical Insurance
  https://www.sevencorners.com/insuranceplans/travelmedical/
- CMI Insurance Specialists Health Insurance for U.S. Students Studying Abroad  www.cmi-insurance.com
- International Educational Exchange Services  www.foreignsure.com

Note: Prior to traveling, all participants must provide proof of coverage (copy of insurance card) to the university.

Independent Activities

Neither CSU, nor the program leader are responsible for any injury or loss a student participant may suffer when (s)he is traveling independently or is otherwise separated or absent from any program-sponsored activities.

If a participant becomes separated from the program group, misses a bus, airplane or train, or becomes sick or injured, (s)he will at his/her own expense seek out, contact and reach the program group at its next available destination.

If during free time, a student wishes to go somewhere outside of the scheduled itinerary, (s)he must let someone, preferably the program leader, know exactly where (s)he is going and when (s)he plans to return. Students should not go out alone.

Emergencies

Any circumstance that has endangered- or poses a genuine risk to- the safety and well being of the program participants is considered an emergency. Emergencies include, but are not limited to the following; assault (physical, sexual), robbery, accident, injuries, hospitalization, serious illness (physical or emotional), terrorist threat or attack, political crises, arrest or questioning, legal action.

Participants should immediately notify the program leader about the emergency. (The program leader is required to inform the university about the emergency, but all CSU parties will treat the information with the strictest confidentiality.)

CSU is bound by law (The Buckley Amendment) regarding the privacy of student records. Accordingly, students on CSU programs are asked to permit program staff to disclose information to students’ families or to other designated persons in the case of emergency abroad. The form also allows students to affirm permission is not granted.

Note: Prior to travel, all participants are required to submit the form entitled, “Permission to Disclose Information to Families and Other Designated Persons in Cases of Emergency.”
Agreement and Waiver of Claims

Note: Prior to travel, all participants are required to sign and submit the form entitled “Agreement and Waiver of Claims”.

I have read, understood and agree to comply with the policies and guidelines stated above.
