WITHDRAWAL, CANCELLATION OR DISMISSAL

Before you take action to withdraw or cancel your enrollment or if you are dismissed from Coppin, you must inform an international student advisor at the International Office of this change to your student program.

Withdrawal or cancellation without prior International Office approval will be reported to SEVIS. Your SEVIS record will thus be terminated and you may lose your lawful F-1 status, including F-1 employment eligibility and benefits.

If informed prior to the withdrawal, the International Office may be able to provide you with a 15-day grace period during which time you would be able to stay lawfully in the U.S. and prepare for departure. If the International Office is not informed prior to the withdrawal, cancellation or dismissal, there is no grace period. Your SEVIS record is terminated and you will lose your lawful F-1 status. In this case, you must depart the U.S. immediately.

- For further information about withdrawals and cancellations, see the Coppin State University EagleGuide (student handbook).
- For information about returning to Coppin after a withdrawal or cancellation please see the Coppin State University EagleGuide, or check with the Office of Records and Registration. See also our information for Returning Students.
